

The Virtual Congress Doctors United for Worldwide Education unites the Medical Profession during Covid-19.

The LION Foundation is organising a unique medical virtual event for thousands of doctors who specialise in Oto-Rhino-Laryngology (Ear Nose and Throat) disease.

In the context of the current global health crisis thousands of doctors will meet in the Doctors United for Worldwide Education Conference on May 18 and 19, 2020.

The LION Foundation (Live International Otolaryngology Network) wants to promote a message of fraternity, knowledge sharing and international mutual aid.

Due to the technical expertise developed with their partner Global Telemedicine Studios, based in the Netherlands, the LION Foundation is in a unique position to cast aside the constraints of geographic and political borders.

This major event will serve 2 objectives:

- In a time of crisis this will maintain links between thousands of doctors facing a global challenge.
- Offering connected physicians, the opportunity to benefit from high-level education organised by surgeons for deafness considered to be leaders in their fields.

37 surgeons from around the world (19 countries) and from 35 institutions will speak at this congress.

During the current Covid-19 pandemic, the Foundation is pleased to support doctors throughout the world by offering them a free online global medical education and training program.
